

Surgery Gone Wrong

2 X 1 HOUR

EPISODIC BREAKDOWN

1. Danger in the OR

Hospitals are thought of as havens for healing and sanctuaries for those in need. But more and more, stories abound of mistakes, mishaps and medical errors that lead to shocking, horrifying results. Danger In The O.R. dares to look under the rug at five disturbing stories of anguish in which unsuspecting patients were deprived of their dreams, or worse, their lives and limbs, all because of carelessness, incompetence and downright negligence. From a young English woman who lost her leg to a cancer misdiagnosis, to a Texas mother who lost her child to faulty, anesthetic machinery, this sobering one-hour special gives victims a platform from which to speak. And their message is always very simple...don't let this happen to you.

2. Cosmetic Surgery: Buyer Beware

Cosmetic surgery: the promise of perpetual youth and beauty with just a simple nip and tuck. But be careful what you wish for. A seemingly simple procedure could leave you scarred for life. In the next hour, you'll meet people who've lost their looks, even their lives, in the vain pursuit of physical perfection. You'll be introduced to a man now barely able to stand in the wake of his quest for more shapely calves. You'll share in the sorrow of a grieving mother who lost her 18-year-old daughter after undergoing liposuction. And you'll have front row seats as two victims head back under the knife in hopes of repairing past procedures gone grossly wrong.

When it comes to cosmetic surgery, buyer beware!
